Tea farmers happiest of them all with Sh5.5b from Govt

Agriculture CS Mithika Linturi revealed that in December 2022 during the KTDA Annual General Meeting (AGM), he requested the Board to consider making a mini bonus payment to the farmers in January so that they can be able to pay school fees considering that schools re-open later this month

Agriculture Cabinet Secretary (CS) Mithika Linturi speaking in Nairobi when he announced the disbursement of a Sh.5.5 billion mini bonus to the Kenya Tea Development Agency (KTDA) affiliated small holder farmers.

BY JOSEPH NG'ANG'A (KNA)

Kenyan tea farmers are smiling all the way to the bank, thanks to Sh5.5 billion released by Kenya Tea Development Agency (KTDA) as mini bonus.

Agriculture Cabinet Secretary (CS) Mithika Linturi said that in December 2022 during the KTDA Annual General Meeting (AGM), he requested the Board to consider making a mini bonus payment to the farmers in January so that they can be able to pay school fees considering that schools re-open later this month.

Linturi said KTDA has the overall management authority of 71 factories and the government has committed to help the management improve earnings of tea farmers.

"The tea sector is key to the growth of our economy as it contributes two per cent of the Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and four per cent of the agricultural GDP, with the sector supporting 650,000 farmers whose factories are managed by KTDA," he said.

Linturi explained that from the information they are getting, tea production

Kenya Pipeline enhances its capacity to store 100m litres of fuel

BY MUTISO MBITHI (MYGOV)

Kenya Pipeline Company has concluded the process of taking over facilities of the moribund state-owned Kenya Petroleum Refineries Ltd (KPRL) in Changamwe, Mombasa to store additional oil products after the refinery ceased operations.

KPRL used to operate East Africa's sole refinery in Mombasa but since ceasing operations some years back, its huge storage tanks in Kipevu have been lying idle.

Its machines had been rendered obsolete by emerging technologies.

A senior Kenya Pipeline Company official who was speaking to MyGov in Kipevu Oil storage facilities in Mombasa said the takeover of the tanks will be on lease basis.

KPC will commence the process of scaling up its fuel storage capacity by adding over 100 million litres of oil products to its stock for pumping to oil marketers in the interior of the country.

The KPRL was founded in 1960 by the Government of Kenya in collaboration with the Shell and British Petroleum companies and was envisaged to serve the East African region by refining imported crude oil and supplying refined oil products to the local and East African markets.

increased in the months of November and December 2022 as a result of the Fertilizer Subsidy Programme that the government has been undertaking.

"As government, we will continue working to ensure that the cost of production is brought down so that there is great benefit to our farmers," said the CS, adding that as a ministry, they have instructions from the President to ensure tea farmers get the best from their produce.

He noted that the government is sourcing funds to finance the construction of 11 lines that will enable processing orthodox tea which fetches more money in the world market.

I have formed a team to hasten the process of streamlining the sharing of revenue," -Mvurya

This move will ensure that Kenyan farmers are able to make more money from their produce.

"It is also the commitment of the government within this year to increase value addition to our teas so that we are able to get to at least 50 per cent which will help us reduce the amount of unprocessed tea that we export," said Linturi.

He said the Ministry is inviting private sector players to invest in value addition, even as the government prepares itself to build common user facilities in the special economic zones, especially in Dongo Kundu, where value addition to the tea can be done.

"Once those common user facilities are done, those who cannot be able to put up the value addition lines can be able to access the government facilities and pack their tea and export it," explained the CS.

Linturi added that Kenyan embassies are ambassadors for Kenyan tea and they are trying to encourage them to continue looking for markets for the Kenyan tea and other produce.

"Our greatest tea markets are Pakistan and Egypt and we still feel we can be able to get a greater share of the market by trying to explore other markets," he said.

KTDA Holdings Chairman David Ichoho said that from the disbursed money, Sh.2.7 billion is payment with respect to mini bonuses for the factories, whose directors passed resolutions to pay mini bonuses to their farmers. Ichoho said the balance of Sh.2.8 billion will go towards paying farmers for the December green leaf delivered to factories.

"Farmers will be paid between Sh.5 and Sh.10 as a mini bonus per kilo of green leaf delivered to their factories for the six months up to December 31st, 2022. The Sh.2.7 billion mini bonus payment represents 449 million kilos of green leaf delivered to KTDA-managed factories over the six-month period," Ichoho said.

He said during the same period, average tea prices for KTDA at the auction stood at Sh.326 per kilogram of made tea compared to Sh.306 over the same period in the 2020/2021 financial year.

Nakuru county to invest in technologies that convert solid waste into fertilizer

BY JANE NGUGI (KNA)

The County Government of Nakuru is forging partnerships with the private sector to promote investments in technologies that convert solid waste into fertilizer, energy and fuel.

Environment, Energy, Natural Resources and Climate Change Chief Officer Mr Kennedy Barasa said that generation of power from waste has the potential of reducing environmental degradation and increasing employment opportunities.

Speaking when he led a team from the City Management Board on an assessment tour of the Giotto dumpsite in London Estate, Barasa observed that rapid urbanization, improved economic situation and industrialization had transformed solid waste management into one of the greatest challenges facing major urban centres in Kenya.

"This calls for Nakuru County to reduce, re-use and recycle waste. Proper sanitation programmes including adequate landfill sites can help our devolved unit to improve the current state of solid waste management and save money. We must urgently exploit the energy potential stored in waste through major available waste-to-energy technologies and also put in place a strategic action plan for the implementation of these technologies," said the Chief Officer.

A number of investors, both local and international, have in the past approached the county government seeking to convert the waste into a profitable venture but most of them eventually go quiet.

We need innovative technologies that change the way we treat solid, waste., -Barasa

The devolved unit has already embarked on rehabilitation of the 30-acre dumpsite and an earth embankment and buffer greenery foliage has been put up to prevent spillage of garbage on to the Nakuru-Kabaraka road during rainy seasons.

The Environment department has also demarcated the dumpsite into portions where recyclable and biodegradable garbage is dumped separately.

Barasa, who was flanked by Nakuru City Board Manager Mr Gitau Thabanja and Chief Officer for Urban Planning Mr Kamau Kuria indicated that the County was in talks with various stakeholders on waste management and appropriate ways of transforming and rehabilitating the dumpsite.

He underscored the need of placing a special emphasis on the potential of conversion of waste into energy and fuel to bring positive change and wealth into communities. The Chief Officer stated, "We need innovative technologies and approaches that change the way we think about, use and treat solid, liquid, domestic, industrial and commercial waste. Nakuru needs to explore the 5Rs of rethinking, refusing, reducing, reusing and recycling to transform waste to wealth."

Lack of adequate waste management has resulted in excessive air, soil and water pollution, threatening public health, ecosystems and biodiversity, as well as accumulating immense quantities of waste in Nakuru's Lakes and Rivers.

Barasa added that from innovating waste management through the 5Rs, Nakuru can resolve not only the challenge, but also create employment, promote economic growth, improve health and ecosystems – which in turn contributes to a happier, greener and healthier county – and can create enormous savings for the devolved unit.

"Sustainable waste management will contribute towards checking climate change. It has the capacity to reduce greenhouse gas emissions by 20 percent. Waste can also be turned into useful raw materials that can make stationery, fabrics and other value-added products," he said.

Mr Thabanja said the county's population is growing at a rate of between 7 to 10 per cent per year, which translates into increased solid waste.

Govt to streamline Inua Jamii cash transfer programme for efficiency

BY ODHIAMBO OMUNDI
(PCO)

The Inua Jamii cash transfer programme will be streamlined in order to improve operational efficiency, accountability and coverage, Social Security and Protection Principal Secretary Joseph Motari has said.

Motari said this was in line with the Kenya Kwanza Manifesto that seeks to improve the lot of vulnerable senior citizens and persons with disabilities.

Speaking in Kajiado during the monitoring of payments for July - August 2022 and September - October 2022 payment cycles to Inua Jamii beneficiaries, Motari assured the beneficiaries of timely and efficient payments noting that the delayed payment of the two payment cycles was occasioned by the transition from the previous administration to the Kenya Kwanza Government.

"We wish to assure the beneficiaries of the Inua Jamii programme that the government will disburse their money at the appropriate time to cushion the vulnerable and elderly persons in the society against poverty," said Motari.

The PS however urged the beneficiaries countrywide to use the stipends wisely in order to better their lives.

Motari said that as part of enhancing efficiency, the six banks that have been contracted to pay the beneficiaries have committed to subcontract bank agents across the wards and sub counties to disburse the funds to the beneficiaries. This he said will save the beneficiaries from traveling long distances that with the attendant costs, fatigue and inconveniences.

The PS urged all eligible beneficiaries of the programme to register with the relevant officers at the sub-county levels noting that registration of beneficiaries is a continuous process.

Motari said the government was keen to have a single registry to address duplication of payment to beneficiaries.

He said that the government in conjunction with the World Bank to register all the beneficiaries of the programme with the National Health Insurance Fund (NHIF) in line with the Kenya Kwanza commitment of achieving 100% NHIF coverage for senior citizens within three (3) years.

The government last week released Sh8.58 billion to 1.07 million beneficiaries of the programme countrywide. The programme targets orphans and vulnerable children, persons with severe disabilities and older persons.

Tea farmers in Murang'a to share over Sh671 million mini bonus

BY BERNARD MUNYAO
(KNA)

Smallholder tea farmers affiliated to the Kenya Tea Development Agency (KTDA) factories in Murang'a are poised to earn more than Sh671 million in mini bonus.

The money, which will be paid starting this week, is part of Sh5.5 billion which was announced by KTDA last week. The payment of the mini bonus has been praised by the farmers affiliated to 10 KTDA tea factories in Murang'a.

A payment schedule seen by KNA reveals Ngere Tea Factory located in Gatauga sub county will get the lion's share of the amount where its farmers will receive Sh137.7 million. The farmers affiliated to the factory will be paid the bonus at a rate of Sh10 per kilo of delivered green leaf.

The mini bonus was announced by Agriculture Cabinet Secretary Mithika Linturi accompanied by KTDA directors led by their Chairman David Ichoho, amid complaints by a section of farmers questioning the slow pace of implementing the recently introduced reforms in efforts to revamp the sub sector.

Farmers affiliated to Makomboki, Nduti, Gacharage, Njunu and Githambo tea factories will be paid as Sh7 per kilo of delivered green leaf. Those affiliated to Kanyanya ini, Kiru and Gatunguru tea factories will get their mini bonus at a rate of Sh6 per kilo.

Chairman of Aberdare Tea Farmers association, Wambugu Gachunji who spoke to KNA through phone lauded the move by KTDA to release the awaited mini bonus at the beginning of the year.

The farmers, he observed, breathed a sigh of relief after receiving the payment alongside their monthly dues for the green leaf delivered.

KMA cracks down on unregistered marine vessels to enhance safety

BY EMMANUEL MASHA AND SIRONIK WATHERA (KNA)

The Kenya Maritime Authority (KMA) has launched a crackdown on marine vessels operating in Kenyan waters without the requisite registration and licensing certification.

The Authority's Coast Regional Manager Alex Munga said the crackdown was aimed at ensuring compliance to safety regulations.

He urged all owners of marine vehicles to have them registered and obtain licences from relevant bodies for them to be allowed to operate.

He said the authority is employing a Diversion Policy in which owners of vessels found to be flouting the requirements do not go through the normal court process, but instead commit themselves to correct the anomalies within agreed timelines.

"For us to encourage compliance, KMA together with the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions (ODPP) decided to apply the Diversion Policy, where violators who admit non-compliance, are made to sign an agreement that they will make changes within a period of time instead of the normal route of the court processes," he said.

Speaking to journalists at the Malindi National Marine Park after a raid that netted three owners of unregistered vessels, Munga said the operation was not meant to harass vessel owners and operators, but to ensure safety in the Kenyan waters.

"This exercise is not meant to harass anybody, but to encourage people to register their vessels. It is not targeting fishermen or tourist vessels only, but also all vessels operating in the country," he said.

He said the authority was keen on identifying and holding owners of vessels accountable.

This will be possible if all owners of marine vessels are registered with KMA and obtain relevant operation licences.

He explained that KMA is the authority mandated to register all marine vessels, but for the vessels to operate, they need to obtain licences from relevant organizations such as the Tourism Regulatory Authority (for those carrying tourists) and the State Department for Fisheries (for fishing vessels).

Sh800 million sewerage recycling plant to be set up in Malindi town

BY EMMANUEL MASHA (KNA)

Kilifi County Government will set up an ambitious Sh800 million sewerage recycling plant in Malindi town to produce briquettes to solve the energy crises in the North Coast region.

Making the announcement, Kilifi Governor Gideon Mung'aro said he would soon launch the plant which is being set up in Sabaki area of Malindi Sub-County with funding from the World Bank.

Mung'aro said the plant will use human waste from toilets in Malindi and Watamu towns to produce coal that will be sold to residents and reduce the overdependence on wood charcoal blamed for environmental degradation.

The Governor said the briquettes will be made from a mixture of sludge, coconut husks and leaves, noting that the project was part of his administration's agenda to clean Malindi town and its environs with a view to reviving the ailing tourism sector.

"Malindi needs to be clean. We already have development partners and in the next one or two weeks I will be launching a mega sanitation project in Sabaki where we shall produce coal briquettes so that people can stop cutting trees," he said.

Mung'aro said his administration, with the help of the development partners, had embarked on the construction of properly lined toilets in both Malindi and Watamu towns, a project that will cost about Sh120 million.

The Governor said the modern toilets will have among other services, a modern bathroom with fully furnished modern bathing facilities.

"I want to make it clear here that once these toilets are ready, they will be run by both youth and women groups. This again will be another form of creating job opportunities," he said.

He said he was also working towards improving the Malindi town's drainage system, which is a major stumbling block to the tourist resort town's development and end incessant water shortages.

"Within the first 100 days in office, I commissioned the distribution of medicines in all our health facilities and now the problem of lack of drugs is a thing of the past. The problem we now have is where to store the drugs, we have been forced to keep them in the wards," he said.

The Governor said he recently signed a supplementary budget that included the purchase of state-of-the art ambulances to replace the aging ones.

State recommits to support media sector through progressive legislations

BY JERRY ABUGA (MYGOV CORRESPONDENT)

The Government has assured the media that it will create a conducive environment for the sector to undertake its operations by putting in place relevant legislation to facilitate realization of this goal.

The Principal Secretary for Broadcasting and Telecommunications at the Ministry of Information, Communications and the Digital Economy, Prof Edward Kisiang'ani (pictured) commended the Media Council of Kenya (MCK) for spear-heading efforts to review archaic laws on media operations with a view to give the country a robust policy to guide media operations.

"The Government recognises the critical place of independent and free media. We will support the media to play its role in contributing to matters of national interest through responsible reporting", the PS said.

Prof Kisiang'ani who was speaking during a Strategic Review meeting by the MCK said the Government will work closely with the media to push service delivery and delivery of its development agenda noting that countries that have a vibrant media have a vivacious development agenda.

"It is not in our brief to fight anybody, including the media as media freedom is enshrined in the Constitution. Instead, we will work closely with all stakeholders to institute laws that will streamline media operations in the country and the Media Council should be at the forefront in these efforts", the PS said.

He however cautioned media organisations against maltreating their staff, in view of the recent lay-offs and pay cuts across media houses in the country.

"Private media owners should not be allowed to threaten existence of the media through unfriendly business practices. Media workers should be protected from rogue businesses".

He revealed that the Government, through the Government Advertising Agency (GAA), is committed to supporting media viability, adding that it has so far released money to settle all pending bills owed to advertisers by the Agency.

"Out of the pending Sh 1.2 billion owed to advertisers, we have so far released Sh244 million to media houses. However, no media house has reported that and most of them continue subjecting their staff to job cuts. This is unfair and should not be allowed", he said.

He urged the MCK to engage media owners to adopt viable business models and professional reporting, imploring media organisations to embrace innovative approaches in their operations in view of the digital shift.

PS Kisiang'ani also asked the Media Council of Kenya to execute its mandate, to ultimately enhance professionalism in the Media.

"As a regulator, the Media Council should ensure responsible reporting by the media. The Media Complaints Commission should pick any breaches to the Code of Conduct for the Practice of Journalism in Kenya and guide the media accordingly", he said.

The PS advised the media to interrogate Government's Media Council of Kenya blueprint on best practices to report objectively on areas around agriculture, Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises, housing and settlement, healthcare, the digital superhighway, the creative economy and environment and climate change.

"The Government is committed to a working relationships with the media in order to improve service delivery and quality of life for all Kenyans.

"Let us engage positively and I urge the media to avoid political inclinations as governments change from time to time. The media should play its watchdog role in a non-partisan manner", Prof Kisiang'ani said.

The Media Council of Kenya CEO David Omwoyo said the Regulator has embarked on reviewing its Strategic Plan in line with the digital transformation of the media space.

He noted that liberalisation of the media space has seen exponential growth of media and asked media organisations to uphold professionalism.

He also said the Council will continue engaging stakeholders in efforts to promote viability and capacity building on coverage of matters of national interest.

Government adopts resilient measures to mitigate impact of extended drought

BY BEN MWENDWA
(PCO)

The National and County Governments are teaming up in a concerted effort to save lives even as the nation stares to a gloomy future due to yet again failed rains.

This is according to the Cabinet Secretary in charge of East African Community, Arid and Semi-Arid Lands and Regional Development Ms. Rebecca Miano.

Appreciating the vital role played by development partners, the private sector, non-state actors, and Kenyans of good, Miano said that the Government has scaled up drought response interventions to cushion lives and livelihoods of those affected by the ravaging drought.

Addressing the Media in her Nairobi office Miano assured the nation that the Government is fully in control of the situation and will do all it takes to save lives.

"We have mapped the affected counties, sub-counties and wards that are affected in order

“The govt is committed to building resilience in order to ensure our state of preparedness is taken care of -Miano to improve targeting and response. The priority interventions are informed by findings gathered by County Steering Groups (CSGs), which are chaired by area Governors" Miano said.

In response to the desire by members of the public to support the Government in its efforts to address the growing humanitarian needs, President William Ruto established a private sector-led National Steering Committee on Drought Response.

The Government tasked the Committee with mobilising resources to complement its efforts to mitigate the prevailing situation. This has aided the Government in drought response interventions including relief food, cash transfers, screening and treatment for malnutrition, water trucking, and provision of livestock feeds and livestock off-take.

The CS said in December 2022 alone, the Steering Committee distributed relief food to 14,300 households in 5 counties under Wakanya Tulindane initiative.

The relief assistance targeted 2,860 households in the worst affected sub-counties including Magarini (Kilifi), Mwingi North (Kitui), Samburu East (Samburu), Moyale (Marsabit) and Igembe North (Meru).

"We sincerely thank all the stakeholders and Kenyans who have stepped in to assist as we urge our worthy stakeholders to ride the crest of the existing goodwill to join the Government in minimising inefficiencies and maximizing our envisaged impact.

"I take this opportunity to assure fellow countrymen and women that the Government is committed to building resilience in order to ensure that our state of preparedness moving forward is taken care of and no life is lost to hunger forthwith" the CS said.

BY LINET WAFULA AND CETRINE MUTAMBI (KNA)

Information, Communication and the Digital Economy Cabinet Secretary Eliud Owalo has urged traders in Kapsabet town to utilize the digital space to enhance and diversify their businesses.

Owalo said traders can now use the internet to trade online at the comfort of their stalls and market their products locally and internationally.

Speaking at Kapsabet open market in Nandi County during the launch of Free Public Wi-Fi, Owalo called upon the small and medium enterprises sector to take full advantage of the digital hubs that the government is setting up across the country and join the e-commerce model.

"We are living in very fast changing times. There is need to develop digital business skills and to transform traditional businesses to digital enterprises," he said

He disclosed that the government intends to establish up to 25,000 free WiFi hotspots across the country to bring internet to the villages.

The CS said the exercise is part of an ongoing country-wide provision of internet connectivity to Kenyans in line with the Kenya Kwanza development plan to transform Kenya into a globally competitive economy.

"The days of donning ties and sitting in offices are over. What we have are technology driven jobs, where you use your brains and phone or laptop to get paid," he said

Nandi Governor Stephen Sang speaking at the same event said North Rift counties are working on a platform called E-SOKO that aims at merging all markets in the region to enable producers and consumers easy access to products.

According to him, the programme will enable agriculture and government to digitize data collection and service delivery projects.

Sang said since the national government is working on plans to digitalize its services, the same should be extended to county governments to enable locals get services on one digital platform.

"My administration will assist traders and locals to enrol for various trainings on how to utilize the digital space to assist the government in trading," he said

Nandi County Commissioner Herman Shambi called on the business community to use the internet to search for online markets and monitor prices from different markets in Kenya and the East Africa to know where their products are in demand for more profits.

Shambi said due to advanced technology, the government will soon introduce drones to identify individuals making and selling illicit brew.

National agricultural project improves rural economies through chicken rearing

BY ROSELAND LUMWAMU
(KNA)

Farmers in Bungoma are reaping big from poultry farming following a Sh81.9 million cash injection into their projects by a national agricultural programme.

The funding from the National Agricultural and Rural Inclusive Growth Project (NARIGP) has boosted poultry farming in the county, which has seen farmers' earnings leap from Sh33 million in 2018 to the current Sh300 million.

NARIGP is a Government of Kenya and World Bank/ International Development Association (IDA) funded project covers Bungoma Embu, Kisii, Homa Bay Samburu, Kirinyaga, Nyamira, Turkana, Nandi, Makueni, Kwale, Meru, Vihiga, Kitui, Narok, Kiambu, Muranga, Kilifi, Nakuru, Migori and Trans Nzoia Counties.

Before the intervention, poultry farmers in Bun-goma had little knowledge on proper chicken rearing as a commercial enterprise. They lacked the skills, knowledge and consistency to do the right thing.

As a result, hatching rates remained low and farmers experienced high chick mortality due to high disease incidences as they had limited knowledge on proper feeds leading to low productivity.

NARIGP Bungoma County Coordinator, Ms. Rebecca Lusweti says the entry of the NARIGP project in 2018 changed everything. The project narrowed in on 20 wards in five sub-counties.

She said NARIGP employed a participatory integrated community development (PICD) approach which enabled the communities in the five sub counties to align themselves to the chicken value chain.

Barazas were held at the ward levels that brought together poultry farmers and mobilized them into 264 common interest groups [CIG] of 25 members per group with each group developing a proposal along their respective value chain nodes.

She said farmers were trained on the vaccination cycle, feeding, brooding and improved housing after which the 264 groups submitted their proposals to NARIGP secretariat at the county for funding.

Farmers were trained at each value chain stage - input supply, production and marketing. They were also trained on disease and parasite management, proper housing, feeding, hatching, brooding, marketing and organizational management.

The farmers were then issued with feed formulation

A successful chicken project run by Bosio common interest group in Siboti sub-county that is earning members a handsome income.

equipment and raw materials and taught how to formulate their own feeds.

The input supply value chain stages included chick incubation and feed formulation while production centered on chicken rearing aspects.

Chicken farmers received incubator machines, feed formulation machines, mixers and millers and constructed more than 100 chicken houses.

Through purchase of incubators, the hatching capacity increased to 10,000 chicks per cycle.

Lusweti said through the project, farmers in the selected wards have increased the average number of live chickens per household to an average of 100 birds per farmer from an initial low of 10 birds translating to 660,000 birds in project areas from an initial low of 66,000 birds.

She said farmers currently enjoy chicken rearing as they have increased knowledge and have access to fertile eggs, chicken feeds, raw materials for feed formulation, vaccines, drugs and chicken marketing.

Lusweti said farmers are now able to formulate their own feeds, reducing cost of production by 30 per cent whereas improved housing and adoption of vaccination has reduced mortality rates by 50 per cent.

The use of incubators has increased hatchability rates hence increasing the number of chicks per hatch.

ADVERTISEMENT NATURAL PRODUCTS INDUSTRY INITIATIVE FOR KENYA REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL (RFP)

Tender Title:	Consultancy Service to carry out Feasibility Study on Commercial viability of indigenous wild Fruits (IWF) in Kenya
Tender Number:	NMK/NPI/IWF/01/2023

The "Natural Products Industry (NPI) Initiative for Kenya" is one of the flagship projects in the Kenya Vision 2030 development blueprint. This project seeks to fully harness the natural products subsector and thereby build it into a vibrant industry that will significantly contribute to national development priorities including employment and wealth creation, poverty alleviation, improved biodiversity management and attainment of double-digit GDP growth. Hitherto, local initiatives on the IWF operate in the informal realm of the economy and, therefore, there is lack of data defining the role that they can play in the economy.

The National Museums of Kenya through the Natural Products Industry (NPI) Secretariat seeks a consultant to undertake a feasibility study to investigate and provide an in-depth analysis of the commercial viability of Indigenous Wild Fruits (IWF) in Kenya. The study will focus on identifying the key elements in the IWFs value chain. The study report will guide interventions targeted at fully operationalizing this value chain into a viable business venture. State to conduct major audit on newly built stadiums across Kenya

BY JUSTUS ANZAYA (KNA)

Sports, Culture and Arts Cabinet Secretary (CS) Ababu Namwamba has ordered for an audit of all recently constructed stadiums across the country to establish if resources invested in the sporting facilities were well utilized.

Namwamba who spoke after touring Njukiri Agricultural Showground in Embu County disclosed that the government is set to construct a state-of-the-art stadium at the grounds in readiness to host the June 1, 2023 Madaraka Day celebrations.

The Cabinet Secretary said the facility once complete will comprise state-of-the-art sporting facilities.

"I am optimistic that we will put up a state-of-the-art stadium here with many sporting facilities," he said.

After touring Moi Stadium, one of the recently constructed stadiums in Embu during the regime of the former government, the CS regretted that the contractor delivered shoddy work and that the field does not reflect the amount that the government had appropriated to put up the stadium.

He decried the poor state of Moi Stadium that is said to have cost the taxpayer Sh180 million, saying it was laughable that there was nothing notable done on the ground.

"It is a big shame for one to claim that they spent Sh180 million to do this kind of shoddy work we are seeing here," he said, adding that he has written a letter to the Auditor General to conduct an audit on all recently constructed stadiums across the country.

Namwamba added that once the audit is finished, legal action will be taken against anybody who will be found culpable of misappropriating funds meant for the construction of the stadiums.

He added that he had given the Auditor General 60 days to conduct an audit on all the recently constructed stadiums across the country.

Lauding the Government for considering construction of a stadium at the show ground, Governor Cecily Mbarire noted that Embu County stands to reap big from the construction of the sporting facility.

"I am glad that the government saw fit to construct the stadium and we are very happy because we know the goodies it will come along with," Mbarire said.

The upgrade of Moi Stadium and the construction of a stadium at Njukiri ASK Showground is set to commence early February this year.

Egerton develops high yielding crop varieties to cope with climate change

BY JANE NGUGI (KNA)

Egerton University in collaboration with private and public industry stakeholders have developed high-yielding, drought and disease-resistant crop varieties while simultaneously stepping up efforts to train farmers to embrace innovative practices as a way of coping with climate change.

Among the high yielding, disease and drought resistant varieties released to the market by the institution include Egerton Mbaazi M1, Mbaazi M2 Mbaazi 3 and Mbaazi M4) pigeon pea seeds, 29 new cassava varieties, Tasha, Ciankui and Chelalang bean varieties that are all suitable for warm areas and Nyota and Mwangaza groundnuts seeds.

Others are new sorghum varieties EUS 130, EUSI, EU-SS-10 and 'EU-SS-11 finger millets (Snapping green) and chickpeas (Saina kal).

Egerton University's Director of Agro-Science Park Prof. Paul Kimurto noted that due to climate change, pests and diseases that were absent or rare have become rampant thereby affecting yields and resulting in losses to the farmers.

Prof. Kimurto indicated that

with the climate change realities experienced, the University and its partners have endeavored to research and avail varieties adaptable to nature's climatic vagaries.

"Climate change has become a threat to food security the world over. Its effects include unpredictable rains, leading to decreased yields and increased production costs. Unless we help our farmers embrace climate-smart agriculture, production will continue to dwindle, leading to deceased incomes, job losses and hunger," he explained. In researching and developing the climate smart seeds, Egerton University has been collaborating with the International Crops Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics (ICRISAT), the Kenya Plant Health Inspectorate Service (Kephis) Community Action Research Project (CARP+) and Kenya Agricultural Livestock Research Organization (KALRO).

Other partners include the Centre of Excellence in Sustainable Agriculture and Agribusiness Management (CESAAM), East African Breweries Limited (EABL), Regional Universities Forum for Capacity Building in Agriculture (RUFORUM), the MasterCard Foundation and Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa (Agra).

"There should be sustained innovation in drought-resistant seed varieties, environment friendly practices and better post-harvest management to reduce losses. We have also been empowering farmers to make informed decisions such as planting at the right time and the right crop," says Prof. Kimurto.

According to the don, the use of climate-smart agriculture innovations and technology is often limited to large scale farmers. "Knowledge dissemination to small scale farmers is critical," he adds.

"The groundnut varieties developed by the University, according to Prof. Kimurto, are offering farmers 20-25 bags per acre of unshelled nuts if good husbandry is done. They do well in hot, dry areas like Turkana, where farmers normally don't harvest much.

He added that the seeds can also be grown in dry parts of Nyanza (south), western and Eastern.

Governor unveils Sh40m CT Scan in Homa Bay town

Residents of Homa Bay will now receive fast diagnosis after a Computerized Tomography (CT) Scan worth Sh40 million and an Out Patient Centre were launched at the County Teaching and Referral Hospital.

Governor Gladys Wanga, while launching the projects said the CT scan equipment will improve the speed and accuracy of diagnosis, ensuring the best possible care for patients.

Wanga said it was a major milestone for her administration to achieve her dreams within the first 100 days in office as she promised the residents during the campaigns.

"My administration will continue to invest in and improve our healthcare system so that every resident can achieve the highest quality of life," she said.

The Governor said the county plans to construct a multi-storey building for the accident and emergency before the end of the year.

"We hope that at the end of this year, God willing, we will be back at this place to officially open the accident and emergency center plus a new outpatient unit," the governor said. She added that the newly built units are just the beginning of the big steps of development as far as the health sector is concerned.

The county boss said National Hospital Insurance Fund (NHIF) will cater for CT Scan services, urging residents to enrol for the cover and utilize the facility.

Wanga noted that revamping of the dialysis unit was ongoing, noting that it had been a challenge for a long time despite the increasing number of patients requiring the service. The new facility has a well-equipped modern theatre room which can offer 8-10 surgeries a day.

She stated that previously, patients from Homa Bay County were being referred to Kisumu for CT scan services.

"From today there will be no more referrals, in fact patients from neighbouring counties like Migori will be referring their patients to our facility," he said.

She said that the CT scan will also be a source of revenue generation for the health sector but stressed that service delivery to the residents of Homa Bay County is paramount. By Brian Odhiambo and Davis Langat (KNA)

Women in artisanal mining in Taita Taveta add bee-keeping to their skill sets

BY ARNOLD LINGA MASILA (KNA)

A pioneer group of fifteen women from the extractive sector, majorly artisanal mining, in Taita Taveta County have been chosen to undergo a one-month training in the best beekeeping practices to diversify their skill sets and open a new avenue to earn a decent living.

The training, supported by both the county government and Catalyst+ will take the women through rigorous exposure and practical lessons on how to tap into beekeeping as an economic activity, not only to produce honey and other extracted products, but also an opening for agro-tourism.

Speaking in Mwatate during the launch of the training, acting CECM in charge of Trade, Tourism and Cooperatives, Ms Gloria Monikombo, said the initiative is multi-pronged in its approach as it will create a direct source of employment opportunities for the women as well as open up a larger space for local opportunities in the agro-tourism sector.

"We're looking at this initiative from several angles. First of all, it will create direct employment opportunities for women. Secondly, it will create hundreds of opportunities for locals with an interest in agro-tourism," Monikombo said.

"These are women who depend on the meagre income they make from artisanal mining and adding something extra in their tray of skills will go a long way to empower them both socially and economically," added Monikombo.

Women in artisanal mining are categorized as a vulnerable group as they are exposed to harsh working conditions, little pay, and at times sexually exploited by their male colleagues.

The training in beekeeping according to Livingstone Mghenyi, the National Chairman of the Domestic Tourism Association (DTA), is a lifeline for vulnerable women to venture into a profitable and hazard-free economic activity while at the same time expanding the bounds of the county in the agro-tourism sub-sector.

Mghenyi added that the training is a start to a long-term plan for the county to become a big player in the beekeeping sector and add another tourist attraction to the bountiful baskets of wildlife and natural attractions across the county.

"We're in for a long plan of turning this county into a leading contributor in the beekeeping sector as well as add more tourist attractions to our diverse wildlife and rich natural heritage," Mghenyi said.

National Government to Curb Water Scarcity in Kitui -PS

The National Government will implement water projects to improve water supply in Kitui County in order to address the perennial water shortage in the county.

Principal Secretary (PS) for State Department of Water and Sanitation, (PS) Dr. Kiprono Ronoh, said that his Ministry had identified critical water projects that will be implemented across the County to improve water supply and tame the historical water shortage in the semi-arid county.

The PS made the remarks, while addressing the media after he paid a courtesy call on the area Governor, Dr. Julius Malombe.

"The County requires 50,000m³ of water to address the shortage from the current supply of 11000m³ available, which is too little for the county consumption demands," the PS lamented.

He promised that his Ministry will work on increasing water supply volumes from the two main dams to the County, where the Kitui-Masinga Water Supply project will be upgraded to jet in 18000m³ while Kiambere-Mwingi Water Supply Project will be extended to provide clean water to Mwingi regions of the Kitui County.

"In the Ministry's Water Master Plan of constructing 100 dams across the country, the Ministry will focus on completing Mwingi-Kiambere water supply project, Kitimui Dam in Kitui West, Thwake Dam which will serve the three Kamba counties of Kitui, Makueni and Machakos, the stalled Umma Dam project in Kitui Central then embark on the Kindaruma-Kiomoto-Mwingi-Migwani pipeline project among others to increase water supply to the local residents," said Dr Kiprono.

He added that, the government plans to drill boreholes in several schools across the County whose water will be distributed to the community as well.

"The government has plans to address water shortage in a strategic way by building infrastructure to supply water to more households," the PS affirmed.
